

Mars Rover finds changing rocks, surprising scientists

December 24, 2015

Mars Rover finds changing rocks, surprising scientists

As NASA's Curiosity rover treks up a three-mile-high mountain on Mars, the rocks are changing. That says something about how the planet's climate and environment changed more than three billion years ago — but scientists are not sure what.

Back on Earth, scientists analyzing the data realized this was something different: It turned out to be the first of the high-silica rocks.

Read more.

December 17, 2015 Kenneth Chang - The New York Times

Los Alamos National Laboratory

www.lanl.gov

(505) 667-7000

Los Alamos, NM

Operated by Los Alamos National Security, LLC for the Department of Energy's NNSA

